MASTER PLAN SURVEY PRESENTATION

Planning Manager Paul Workman reviewed the Master Plan update project and survey results. He discussed undergrounding utility lines and dark sky regulations. He reported about 400 surveys responded to the public art question: 60% in favor, 30% not in favor, 10% needed more information; public art was not as high a priority as parks and trails. He noted all the responses were available on the City website and project website.

The Commission discussed responding to the many survey comments opposed to spending taxpayer dollars on public art by explaining the CHVAC budget, the community activities the CHVAC contributed to beyond art purchases, and the CHVAC's plans for future art. The Commission agreed they wanted to do more family and kid-oriented activities so the community would see the value the CHVAC added. They agreed they wanted to communicate via social media in addition to the Crier.

CONSENT AGENDA

Co-Chair Hall moved, seconded by Commissioner Patteson to approve the following items on the Consent Agenda:

- a. Approval of November 29, 2021 Minutes

The motion passed unanimously.

ITEMS REMOVED FROM CONSENT AGENDA

UNFINISHED BUSINESS

Relocation of Crew Series

City Clerk Gillespie explained the relocation had been approved by City Council and Ms. Peterson was working with the Parks crew and the artist to arrange for the relocation.

Robert Mangold Write Up

The Commission provided direction to staff on formatting of the Mangold write-up and posting on the website.

Commissioner Patteson expressed concern with the paint fading on Windsong III.

City Clerk Gillespie indicated she would pass on the Commission's concerns to Ms. Peterson to communicate to Reven Swanson.

Commissioner Patteson asked for more details about the insurance for the sculptures on loan.

CHVAC Goals

The Commission indicated a longer discussion was needed on this item and scheduled it for a future work session.

Fundraiser Letter

Co-Chair Hall suggested fundraising for a particular sculpture might be more successful. She noted small donations from more residents would be helpful.

Commissioner Patteson suggested a day of giving.

Commissioner Smith suggested different gifts for levels of donations.

Director Sager suggested in the future the Commission could include donation envelopes with suggested amounts similar to the ones used for the Crier.

Commissioner Patteson suggested setting up online donations.

Open Studios

Commissioner Patteson reported Duke Beardsley would be interested.

Commissioner Smith volunteered to contact the artists on the Artist Directory to determine their interest in participating in an open studios event.

Instagram Account

City Clerk Gillespie stated she would prioritize setting up a City Instagram account that the Commission could use.

Next Art Show

The Commission decided the next art show would be all kid's art. They discussed working with the schools; having a prompt such as "How does your family celebrate Spring?"; allowing different mediums; keeping the art show beginning in the fall for consistency; displaying the art only during the reception because the kids will want it back; posting the call for artists in the Crier right after spring break with submissions accepted through October.

NEW BUSINESS

2022 Consultant Projects

City Clerk Gillespie asked if the Commission had any other projects in mind for Ms. Peterson besides the John Meade Park permanent sculpture.

The Commission asked that staff check with Ms. Peterson on buffing the Crew series pieces and if she wanted to be involved in the photography of the collection.

John Meade Park Permanent Sculpture

Commissioner Smith suggested having the community vote on the final sculpture from a choice of three approved by the Commission.

The Commission agreed the Parks, Trails and Recreation Commission needed to be involved early in the process. They approved the project brief with the addition of possibly allowing the public to vote on three sculptures.

Annual Event

The Commission agreed to hold a work session following the February 28, 2022 meeting to discuss the annual event.
